What's wrong? FSA incorrectly heat treated the aluminum bottom bracket spindles on some of these bikes. This manufacturing error caused cracks that can lead to a complete crankset failure, with risk of serious injury or death.

What will my dealer do? Remove the crankset, clean and inspect the bottom bracket spindle for cracks. If cracks are present you will receive a new crankset at no cost. If no cracks are present, your crankset will be reinstalled and may be used. Note that there is nothing wrong with the design. The problem is a manufacturing error on some bottom bracket spindles. What do these cranksets look like? See below:
